The Council for the Development of Social Science Research in Africa (CODESRIA) is an independent organisation whose principal objectives are to facilitate research, promote research-based publishing and create multiple forums geared towards the exchange of views and information among African researchers. All these are aimed at reducing the fragmentation of research in the continent through the creation of thematic research networks that cut across linguistic and regional boundaries.

CODESRIA publishes Africa Development, the longest standing Africa based social science journal; Afrika Zamani, a journal of history; the African Sociological Review; the African Journal of International Affairs; Africa Review of Books and the Journal of Higher Education in Africa. The Council also co-publishes the Africa Media Review; Identity, Culture and Politics: An Afro-Asian Dialogue; The African Anthropologist, Journal of African Transformation, Méthod(e)s: African Review of Social Sciences Methodology, and the Afro-Arab Selections for Social Sciences. The results of its research and other activities are also disseminated through its Working Paper Series, Green Book Series, Monograph Series, Book Series, Policy Briefs and the CODESRIA Bulletin. Select CODESRIA publications are also accessible online at www.codesria.org

CODESRIA would like to express its gratitude to the Swedish International Development Cooperation Agency (SIDA), the International Development Research Centre (IDRC), the Ford Foundation, the Carnegie Corporation of New York (CCNY), the Norwegian Agency for Development Cooperation (NORAD), the Danish Agency for International Development (DANIDA), the Netherlands Ministry of Foreign Affairs, the Rockefeller Foundation, the Open Society Foundations (OSFs), TrustAfrica, UNESCO, UN Women, the African Capacity Building Foundation (ACBF) and the Government of Senegal for supporting its research, training and publication programmes.

Notes on Authors

Enna Sukutai Gudhlanga is an Associate Professor and the Chairperson of the Department of Languages and Literature at the Zimbabwe Open University. Enna holds a Certificate in Gender Mainstreaming from OSSREA; Certificate in Gender and the Labour Market from CODESRIA; Certificate in HIV and AIDS Care and Counselling from UNISA; BA General, BA Special Honours and an MA from the University of Zimbabwe. She is currently studying for an M Phil in Land and Agrarian Studies at the University of the Western Cape. Enna has published book chapters, refereed journal articles and books including; Gender Dynamics in Shona Culture: The Case of Yvonne Vera's Novels (2010) and Miles or Mirages? Women and the Public Sphere in Zimbabwe (2011), among other publications. She has presented papers on gender issues at many international conferences. Enna is interested in the study of Africa and the development of its literatures, cultures and world outlooks. Her main concern is the ultimate self-definition and complete mastery of the African people's own life. She is also interested in socio-linguistic issues like democracy, language rights, planning and policy.

Onias Mafa is a Senior Lecturer and Programme Coordinator in the Department of Education at the Zimbabwe Open University, Bulawayo Region. He was the Coordinator of the 2009 Comparative Research Network (CRN), Zimbabwe Team, which was commissioned by the Council for Social Science Development in Africa (CODESRIA). He is a holder of BEd (Agriculture), MEd (Educational Administration) and PhD (Didactics). He is also a published author and poet. He has a keen interest in land reform, environmental issues and the indigenisation of African economies.

Norman Manyeruke is a holder of BA Honours in Geography and Masters of Science in Population Studies. He is a Lecturer in the Department of Environmental Science and Health at National University of Science and Technology (NUST). His areas of research interest include rural development, irrigation systems in Africa and their impact on sustainable livelihoods, migration, and HIV and AIDS.

Ephraim Hudson Mazvidza Matavire is a holder of Bachelor of Accounting Science and Master in Business Administration degrees, and is a Fellow of the Institute of Administration and Commerce (FIAC). He is a Lecturer and Programme Coordinator at the Zimbabwe Open University with special interests in land reform and African economic indigenisation.

John Mpofu is a Lecturer and Programme Coordinator in the Department of Media and Journalism Studies at Zimbabwe Open University, Bulawayo Region. He is a holder of Bachelor of Arts degree, a Graduate Certificate in Education, and a Master of Education degree. His principal research areas are in monitoring and evaluation, governance, land reform and the role of the media in development.

Acknowledgements

This book would not have been completed without the invaluable support of a number of people, organisations and agencies. Firstly, we are grateful to the Council for the Development of Social Science Research in Africa (CODESRIA) for sponsoring the research, fostering and nurturing collaborative research among team members, providing us with a comprehensive reading list on the topic and giving guidance to the Comparative Research Network (CRN) Team through constructive criticism and Research Methodology Workshops such as the one held in Kampala, Uganda, 18-21 November 2009. Special mention goes to Kouassivi Abdon Sofonnou of CODESRIA who worked closely with the team throughout the entire duration of the study. Secondly, the African Institute for Agrarian Studies (Zimbabwe), for the material support and strategies they gave the team to do the study in a highly politicised environment. Special thanks should be given to Professor Sam Moyo and Walter Chambati for their support. We also extend our appreciation to the Zimbabwe Open University and the National University of Science and Technology for allowing the CRN members to carry out the study. We also want to thank officers of the Department of Agricultural Research Extension (AREX) in Kwekwe District for playing an important role in data collection.
