The Comparative Research Programme on Poverty (CROP), in cooperation with Zed Books, requests entries for the

CROP International Studies in Poverty Prize 2014

Innovative manuscripts are accepted from all disciplines of the Social Sciences and the Humanities.

Works challenging the dominant thinking and knowledge about poverty and providing sound contributions to the eradication and/or prevention of poverty in our world are especially welcomed.

CROP is especially (but not exclusively) interested in the themes of Poverty and Human Rights, Gender Disparity, Policy Innovation, the MDG process, and Global Justice.

CLOSING DAY FOR SUBMISSION OF ENTRIES IS 31st of August 2014

Entries should:
- be original and written in the English language
- be unpublished in all formats
- be approx. 80,000–100,000 words
- follow Zed Books’ house guidelines (www.zedbooks.co.uk/for-authors)
- be anonymized, with author information given in a separate document.

NOK 50,000 ($8,500) prize, plus publication in the CROP International Studies in Poverty series from Zed Books.

Winners announced on the CROP and Zed Books websites by November 2014.

For editorial norms and additional information, please see www.crop.org or contact us at crop@uib.no